You can find a label manufacturer at any office store or online. When working with a label maker, simply enter their information and specify the label size. If you use the "normal paper" setting, then the toner can be rubbed easily because there hasn't been enough energy to glue it properly. The laser and inkjet printer have an accuracy of +/- 1mm, so be sure to leave a good margin around your design or text to allow this. If the print doesn't align perfectly, adjust the page margins. Then work with a design tool, or even a spreadsheet, to add the information on your label for printing. This can cause a paper error on the printer. Always enter your labels into Portrait (narrow edge), as this is the direction of the grain (like wood) and ensures that the strength of the label is maintained. Laser and inkjet printers do not print directly to the edge of the A4 sheet, so if you have labels without a side edge remember to allow 3mm (Depending Another configuration option is to consult the technical data of our PDF templates to configure your own designs.
